

Former McClellan Air Force Base
Environmental Cleanup
Five-Year Review Begins

The Five-Year Review is a formal evaluation of the ongoing environmental cleanup at the former McClellan Air Force Base, near Sacramento, CA. The report will be issued in 2019 and we are informing you the process has begun.

Past disposal of hazardous materials, such as solvents and other chemicals resulted in soil and groundwater contamination. While the Air Force is the lead agency responsible for cleanup and McClellan Business Park is responsible for the privatized cleanup, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the State of California (Department of Toxic Substances Control and the California Regional Water Quality Control Board) review the report to evaluate if ongoing remedies continue to be protective of human health and the environment. These remedies include groundwater pump and treat activities and soil vapor extraction.

If you have any issues or concerns about McClellan's cleanup program, or have direct knowledge regarding the cleanup remedies, the Air Force would like to talk to you.
